FIVE SHOTS ARE FIRED AT COUPLE

Woman's Scream And Shots Are Heard About One O'Clock This Morning

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 24.—A middle-aged Elliott divorcee and her elderly boarder were killed today by an unknown gunman who fired five shots at the couple as they sat in a parked automobile.

Slain were blonde Carrie Kolb, 49, and John Edgar Ewing, 63. Both were pronounced dead in South Side Hospital, Miss Kolb from wounds in the temple, mouth and left arm, Ewing from head and chest wounds.

Investigating the possibility that the murderer may have committed suicide, detectives were assigned to search the underbrush in the West Carson street area where the shootings occurred.

Shots Heard

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Marion, nearby residents, heard a woman's screams about 1 a. m., then heard three shots, followed by two more. They saw the flame from the last shot. Then a shadowy figure fled up the hillside, they reported. Shortly afterwards a freight train passed along the Panhandle division of the Pennsylvania Railroad above West Carson street. Police theorized the killer may have swung aboard.

Found Beside Car

The bodies were found beside the car. Inside the machine lay four .32 calibre automatic shells. One door held an imbedded bullet, while the rear left glass was shattered.

The slayer had not disturbed Miss Kolb's purse. It contained $6.

Ewing had boarded in the Klob home since before 1932, when Miss Klob was divorced from Clarence A. Heckman, now believed remarried and living in Chicago.

Little Relief In Sight For Nation's Heat Wave

(International News Service)

Sweltering heat again oppressed the nation today as the summer's most severe heat wave went into its seventh day with no substantial relief in sight.

Forecasts uniformly were for continued warm, and even where showers were considered a possibility, weather observers said they would bring little relief from the heat.

Over 100 Degrees

There was every indication that temperatures such as were recorded yesterday would be the rule again today. The mercury boiled above 100 in many sections yesterday, including such highs as 101 at Madison, Wis., 104 at North Platte, Neb., 108 at Huron, S. D., 103 at Fresno, Calif., and 109 at Phoenix, Ariz.

More than 200 deaths, including those by drowning as hundreds of thousands flocked to beaches, have been attributed to the heat wave. In the middlewest, serious damage to the corn crop is feared unless the heat is broken by rain soon.

In their long-range forecast, weather observers held forth little hope for early relief. They said all indications are that it will continue for at least three days, moderating somewhat on the eastern seaboard.

Major Edgar Hamilton Of French Foreign Legion Reported Alive And Well

Major Edgar Guerard Hamilton, of the French Foreign Legion, commandant of the French fort at Oran, Morocco, is alive and well, according to a communication just received by his mother, Mrs. C. L. Goodman of the Guerard Apartments, New Castle.

Since the fall of France and the subsequent sinking of various units of the French fleet off of Oran, by the British, the whereabouts of Major Hamilton had been unreported in this country.

The distinguished French officer, a veteran of two World wars and made a Knight of the Legion of Honor by the French government in 1933, is a former Carnegie Tech student and a graduate of New Castle High School. Major Hamilton's letter to his mother makes no mention of the recent hostilities nor of the sinking of the French battleships among whose officers he had many friends. He does state, however, that everyone is considerably downcast and apprehensive for the future. He reports that the port of Casablanca is the only harbor of the French Empire in that part of the world where there is any possibility of getting mail through and with no certainty at all for the U. S. A. The Major is looking forward to obtaining a leave to visit this country.

Closed Session Of Conference Occurs Today

By JOSEPH BAIRD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HAVANA, July 24.—Behind closed doors, the peace committee of the Inter-American conference of Foreign Ministers met today for what delegates believed was the most momentous single session of the conclave, called to insure the western hemisphere against totalitarian penetration.

Delegates freely expressed the belief to newspapermen, who were excluded from the peace committee meeting, that the crux of the conference would be reached this morning.

Secretary of state Cordell Hull, presiding over the committee meeting, fully expected that it would agree to his plan calling for American "trusteeship" over European colonies in the westernhemisphere, it was authoritatively stated.

Defies Prison Guards For Nineteen Hours Atop High Water Tower

(International News Service)

ATLANTA, Ga., July 24.—After defying guards for approximately 19 hours with a machinist's hammer, 20-year-old Andrew Jackson Wynne—who preferred life in the Atlanta Federal penitentiary to that on a Georgia prison gang—ended his self-imposed holdout atop the prison's 100-foot water tower at 8:25 a. m. today.

Wynne, who was to have been released from the prison today and turned over to state authorities to be returned to the Chatham county prison, slowly descended the water tower 15 minutes after he had held a long conversation with a prison guard. He had been on top of the tower since about 1:30 yesterday afternoon.

There was no word immediately from prison authorities as to what the unidentified guard told the convict that prompted him to change his mind and quit his vigil.

Watch From Distance

Reporters were refused admittance to the prison reservation and were forced to watch proceedings from a distance.

Irked by the flood of telephone calls during late yesterday and last night, prison authorities refused to answer the telephone this morning.

The guard started up the long ladder leading to the top of the tower shortly before 8 a. m. He stood on the main ladder at the outer edge of the tower and talked to the convict for about 15 minutes. The convict was seated on a small platform in the center of the roof of the tower.

Finally, the guard started back

Political Machines Also Subject Of Hot Blasts From G. O. P. Nominee

REAL ISSUES ARE TO BE PRESENTED

Willkie Speaking In Colorado, Wyoming And Utah Within Few Days

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, July 24.—A shirt-sleeve speech, delivered to a Republican audience in Cheyenne, Wyoming, and two preliminary blasts in Colorado at the third term and the new deal and political machines, today marked the progress of Wendell L. Willkie's campaign for the presidency.

In a crowded day, which began in Colorado Springs, his vacation spot, at six in the morning and ended in Salt Lake City at one a. m. today, Willkie, who insists that his campaign will not open until his acceptance speech on August 17, delivered some of the hottest blasts ever unleashed in a presidential campaign.

No Paid Speakers

In addition he made a particularly important announcement—that no paid speakers will support his cause.

In a matter of 14 hours he made speeches at Brighton and Greeley, Colo., and Cheyenne but his hottest of the day was the Cheyenne speech judged by both weather and text.

Guest of Republicans gahered from every county in the basement of the Masonic consistory, Willkie literally and figuratively peeled off his coat and attacked the administration and the political machine.

"In this campaign," he said, "every corrupt machine will be fighting us, machines which have been supported and their strengh built up by taxpayers' money fed out from Washington.

"I mention particularly the Hague machine in New Jersey which has attempted to throttle civil liberties,

Petain Government Plans "Purge" Trials

(International News Service)

VICHY, France, July 24.—The government of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain went forward today with plans for court action involving former Premier Edouard Daladier and other former government members to fix responsibility for France's military defeat.

A decree issued by the council of ministers provided for revocation of French nationality and confiscation of property of French citizens who left national territory between May 10 and June 30.

(The official German news agency DNB reported from Vichy that the decree also would apply to wives and children of Frenchmen who left France in the stipulated period without sufficient reason.)

Daladier and others who face court investigation left Bordeaux June 20 for French Morocco, shortly before the Petain regime reached armistice agreements with Germany and Italy.

It was announced that the courts will consider the responsibility of Daladier former Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos, former Navy Minister

From Bermuda, it was stated, they may travel to Nassau aboard a British warship.

Gives Details Of Air Battle

Eye-Witness Account Of Aerial Battle Over British Isles Is Presented

By HARRY HIGGINBOTHAM

AT A SOUTHEAST ENGLISH COAST TOWN, July 24.—The hard-shelled weather-bitten folk of England's south coast had another of their periodic thrills today—perhaps the best and biggest of all so far—and I was here with them to watch the Royal Air Force trounce a mighty fleet of Nazi raiders.

These people know no fear. Knowing what this war means and how it must be fought, they actually look forward to each succeeding raid and they cheer each British victory just like they used to cheer their favorites at the Saturday football game.

But no football match ever got me as excited as today's experience when I watched the rival fighters wheel and pivot to spit their hail of death at one another.

Today's big show began when a strong force of German bombers dived out of the clouds to attack shipping just off the coast. They dropped their bombs from altitudes varying from 100 to 2,000 feet.

Huge fountains of water spurted as each bomb fell, almost obscuring the ships from view. But suddenly one of the warships convoying the merchantmen opened up a terrific barrage.

Bombs continued to fall all around them, but those British gunners kept on whaling away.

Then the royal air force went in.

German Raiders Are Handicapped By Bad Weather

Harassing Air Raids Are Continued Despite Weather, Berlin Reports

(International News Service)

BERLIN, July 24.—Although handicapped by unfavorable weather, German war planes are continuing harassing attacks upon England, according to today's official war communique which said:

"A German submarine sank two strongly convoyed and armed merchantmen totalling 14,000 tons.

"Owing to unfavorable weather, activity of the German air force was limited, but we attacked and bombed some railway lines, roads and reserve camps in southern England.

"During armed reconnaissance over the Channel and English coasts, our fighters sank two patrol boats and one mine-sweeper and damaged another ship. One of our fighters succeeded in sinking an enemy submarine in the North Sea.

"During the night of July 23-24, British planes dropped bombs at several planes in north and western Germany without causing much damage. Our night chasers shot down two planes and our anti-aircraft brought down one.

"One German plane is missing."

Rome Has First Taste Of War Tuesday Night

(International News Service)

ROME, July 24.—Rome had its first taste of war last night when anti-aircraft guns opened a terrific barrage after an air raid alarm sounded, the official Italian communique disclosed today.

No bombs were dropped, but several persons were injured by shell splinters, the statement said. The alarm was sounded on the basis of reports from Gaeta, 60 miles south of Rome, indicating that enemy planes were approaching.

The statement said:

"In the eastern Mediterranean, our submarines sank an Australian destroyer.

"One of our air units bombed fuel depots of the naval base at Malta. Despite heavy enemy anti-aircraft fire, full hits were obtained, causing numerous fires.

"In northern Africa, two enemy pursuit planes of the Gloster type were shot down in an air fight without any losses to us.

"Last night, an air raid alarm was sounded in Rome on the basis of reports from Gaeta. Anti-aircraft batteries carried out a barrage of fire. Bombs were not dropped but several persons were injured by shell splinters."

Nearly 100 Planes Take Part In One Clash Over Southeast Coast Town

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 24.—Nazi Germany's long-awaited "blitzkrieg" attack on Great Britain apparently began today with a series of violent raids on widely-scattered points and one terrific air battle over a southeast coast town in which nearly 100 planes participated before the invaders were routed.

The attacking planes seemed to come from all directions, an eye-witness reported. And in the melee which followed when the planes turned and twisted with incredible speed in a dog-fight, it was impossible to distinguish the British planes from the German so furious was the tide of battle.

British authorities claimed a "bag" of at least ten German planes early this afternoon, even as new flights of Nazi bombers and fighters were reported over southwest England and Wales.

At least eight planes were brought down by royal air force fighters and anti-aircraft fire off the coasts of England, while two German attackers crashed in the sky battle which took place in full view of the residents of an unspecified town.

Will Draft None With Dependents During Peace Time

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Men with families who have been wondering how they would support their dependents if they were drafted for military training under the proposed compulsory conscription bill, today got their answer from a member of the army's general staff.

"Never in time of peace will men with dependents be drafted into the army," Brig. Gen. William E. Shedd, assistant chief of staff, told the house military affairs committee. He assured the legislators that the war department plans for the time being to call up only single men if the pending compulsory military training bill is passed.

Remember those days when the weather was chilly, remember those mornings you thought you would freeze, remember the slush and the ice on the sidewalks, the snow on the pathway clear up to your knees. You piled on the coal but the furnace was lazy, outside it was down clear to eleven below, and all you could see as you hiked to your office, was ear muffs and great coats and oodles of snow. Well now that the temperature keeps on a rising, remember it won't be so long I would say, 'till once more you'll yell 'cause the weather is chilly, it isn't just now, ninety-four today.

May Be Cooler Weather By Friday

Torrid Heat To Persist In Area

Weather Man Not Entirely Certain That Wave Will Break Friday

SHOWERS IN SOME PARTS OF STATE

(International News Service)

Pennsylvania today was again due to swelter under the fierce rays of a scorching sun as the nation's first heat wave of the year played a continued performance after a slight let-down yesterday.

Today and tomorrow, weather forecasters throughout the state predicted, would continue to be "warm," although scattered showers may help to keep Pennsylvanians cool intermittently.

There may be cooler weather in store for the state by Friday, the U. S. weather bureau at Pittsburgh hinted, but then added:

No Certainty

"There is no telling for certain yet, though."

The heat wave in the state thus far has been responsible for 13 deaths due to prostration and another 15 drowned. This was believed to be the highest death toll in the nation.

Western Pennsylvania yesterday had the highest temperatures in the states, with recordings around the 87 degree mark. Central Pennsylvania hit 86, while the highest recorded temperature in Philadelphia was 82.

The two coolest spots in the state, apparently, were Hazleton and Reading, where rain sent the thermometer down to 68.

Lives Are Lost

Showers yesterday resulted in a delayed schedule for the Maryland and Pennsylvania railroad due to a washout three miles south of York.

In the Pittsburgh area three more lives were lost due to exhaustion, lightning and one drowning.

William Paul Kemerer, 49, a farmer, was killed by a stroke of lightning near Greensburg yesterday afternoon as he worked in a corn-field with two young sons. The crackling electrical storm swept over Allegheny, Washington and Westmoreland counties.

State Motor Police Patrolman Samuel T. Sudia, 27, of Jeannette, was drowned while swimming in the Allegheny river at Kittanning.

down the ladder, and Wynne Rose slowly, walked in a small circle around the platform to stretch his legs and sat down again—evidently to think the matter over.

Makes Descent

Some 15 minutes later he arose, and slowly put on his shirt which he had removed after taking up his position on the water tower yesterday afternoon. He then picked up the machinist's hammer and a few other unidentified objects.

He then replaced the short ladder leading from the outer edge of the tower to the small platform in the center of the roof. He removed it yesterday to prevent guards from reaching him. After testing the ladder, he descended to the catwalk encircling the base of the tower, and then started down the ladder to the ground.

Presumably there were guards waiting for him when he touched the earth, but prison buildings hid him from view of reporters before he reached the bottom of the ladder.

Reporters—who had been barred from the prison reservation and had been forced to watch proceedings from a distance—finally reached Warden J. W. Sanford on the phone, but the prison head declined to make a statement—other than that the prisoner came down of his own volition.

"I'm tired of the publicity, and if I gave a statement I might be misquoted," he told a reporter.

From another source it was learned that the guard who talked with the convict made no promises.

"He merely told him what a fool he was making out of himself," the informant said.

PETAIN GOVERNMENT PLANS 'PURGE' TRIALS

Cesar Campinchi and former Interior Minister George Mandel for declaration and operation of the unsuccessful war against Germany.

Officials stated that four others, Jean Zay, former education minister, Paul Viennot, former undersecretary for foreign affairs, Pierre Mendes, France, an undersecretary in the Blum cabinet, and a member of the chamber of deputies will be tried by court martial on charges of abandoning their posts.

The trials are expected to be part of a general "purge" by the Petain government, which also has passed a law permitting abrogation of citizenship of foreigners who have adopted French nationality in recent years.

Whereabouts Unknown

Daladier's exact whereabouts was not known, but it was reported he and several other former government leaders had been brought back to Marseilles from Casablanca.

The decree calling for revocation of citizenship and confiscation of property applies to persons who left France between May 10 and June 30 without official missions or other reasons deemed valid by the government.

Among those so affectd are general Charles Degaulle, who went to England to organize a French force to continue fighting against Germany. He already has been removed from the French army.

Frank Ferry, Ellwood City, and Twila Corwin, Beaver Falls, R. D. 2, drove motor cars which assertedly collided at Long avenue and Moravia street at 5:20 p. m. yesterday. According to reports, Miss Corwin sustained an injury to her right leg.

WILLKIE ASSAILS THIRD TERM AND NEW DEAL POLICY

the boss Crump machine in Tennessee, the Kelly-Nash machine in Chicago.

"I am proud of the fact that they will be fighting me.

To Present Real Issues

"No fancy phrases pointed up by a brain trust in some back room and delivered by a melodious voice over the air are going to keep us from putting the real issue of this campaign before the American people. The government belongs to 'We, the people,' and we are going to take it back."

An interesting feature of Willkie's Cheyenne speech was his reference to the "new leadership" of the Republican party and he named such men as Rep. Joe Martin of Massachusetts, Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana, Rep. Frank Horton of Wyoming, Governor Raymond Baldwin of Connecticut, Governor Ralph Carr of Colorado, Govenor Nils Smith of Wyoming and Governor Harlan Bushfield of South Dakota.

All these are men who supported his nomination candidacy either before Philadelphia or in sufficient time to be acknowledged as original Willkie men.

"I have always believed that the strangle hold of big business over the courts of government should be removed," he said.

"Now I say that the strangle hold of big government over courts and business must be removed."

Must Be Workable

At another point he said: "We must renew and invigorate our national economy, subject to social controls, but it must be a national economy which will work.

"The lights of liberty are going out one by one all over the world and I call for those who believe in the American form of government to support this crusade of ours so that in our hands the torch may burn brighter than ever.

"This is not a Republican campaign, a partisan campaign—it is a crusade."

Attending the annual frontier days at Cheyenne, Willkie learned tha President Roosevelt at Hyde Park had had something to say about prominent Democrats who have come out for the Republican nominee.

Will Have To Say Lot More

"The president is going to have to make remarks about a lot of Democrats before this campaign is over," he said. "I thought the president would be talking about things besides the affairs of state before this campaign is over."

His obvious reference was to the president's conditions in accepting the Democratic third term nomination—that he would be too engrossed in the naion's business to actively campaign.

Leaving Cheyenne by plane shortly after 10 p. m. last night, the Willkie party arrived at Salt Lake City airport at 12:15 p. m.

The program today called for participation in the annual covered wagon days celebration here.

FIERCE AERIAL BATTLES OCCUR OVER ENGLAND

ed spellbound, the combat planes wheeled, dipped and dived as the pilots jockeyed for position. When the encounter ended, two German fighters had been brought down, bringing to seven Britain's "bag" of Nazi raiders for the day.

One of the German planes engaged in the battle crashed in the middle of a road only a few yards from inhabited cottages while another landed in a cornfield.

The nose of the first plane was embedded deep in the ground and the fuselage crumpled like cardboard. The pilot managed to bale out, but his parachute broke away and he fell to his death in the playing field of a nearby school.

The pilot of the second machine was injured and taken to a hospital.

Fiercest Yet

The battle, which began off the coast and moved for a time over the town, was one of the fircest yet witnessed by England.

German bombing planes, escorted by fighters, had been attacking a convoy in the Thames estuary. While bombing merchant ships, squadrons of royal air force fighters swooped down upon the raiders, which fled toward the coast.

Many eye-witnesses saw the British engage them in combat. The German plane which landed in the street plummeted in a nose-dive with black smoke pouring from its tail.

The metal-sheathed nose bored a hole 14 feet deep. Other portions of the plane were smashed into fragments.

The spectacular air battle was the chief incident of a day which saw Nazi raiders swarm over the British Isles in a series of attacks embracing all parts of the kingdom.

Earlier in the day, British fighting planes hurled themselves at German bombers over England, Scotland, Wales and the English channel, shooting down four raiders in a series of aerial battles, while anti-aircraft fire accounted for a fifth bomber.

As they took off from ground stations and headed out to sea, the Germans began to retreat, fighting rear guard action all the way across the Channel. Extra British patrols arrived and combed the upper skies, detecting other lurking raiders.

For the next half-hour there was an unending series of machine-gun melees, in which land batteries sometimes joined. The Germans eventually retired to the opposite coast with British spitfires on their tails.

A prominent local man was seen practically running up one side of North Mercer street and down the other Tuesday afternoon about 5 o'clock with a slip of paper in his hand, which gave the license number of someone's car; and a nickel in his other hand. Upon inquiring, Pa Newc was told he was looking for a certain make car, with such and such a license number, to put a nickel in the meter. When Pa Newc left he was still in a dither, as he hadn't found the designated car.

CORRECTNESS FOR THE VANQUISHED

THE Germans occupying Amsterdam seem deeply hurt and genuinely disappointed by the attitude toward them of the Dutch. It has happened that when German officers entered a restaurant, for instance, all the Dutch patrons quietly got up and left. This sort of thing is annoying.

So the Dutch burgomaster has felt moved to issue a proclamation to the effect that "I notice that everyone is not conducting himself correctly and respectfully toward the German Army of Occupation . . ."

That is really too bad, because every evidence indicates that the conduct of German occupying troops, once conquest is complete, is beyond reproach. It is sad that some of the Dutch find themselves unable to forget the 30,000 civilians killed and the 70,000 wounded in the attack on Rotterdam May 24.

The standards of just what is correct conduct toward a conqueror need to be more closely defined.

FRANCE AND HITLER

It is possible Hitler is waiting until he can get full cooperation from the French before jumping off the northern coast of Europe for his attempted penetration of Britain.

France has changed its form of government, is denouncing the British and is doing its best to cut the French people off from reception of anything but the totalitarian viewpoint. Hitler may conceive it best to be sure of willing French cooperation with his objective, the conquest of Britain against which the venom of the new French leaders is now being spilled. If that can be achieved, Hitler will have nothing at his back to worry about and everything ahead of him to gain.

Continued French expressions of outrage against British seizure of the fleet and the inactivity of the large French army in Syria indicate that the French leaders completely subscribe to Hitler. Whether the French people can be persuaded to cooperate willingly has not been disclosed.

Italy has not been of much help to the nazis and can get to be an actual liability if Britain presses the war in the Mediterranean. Petain and his ilk might become a more preferred partner of Hitler than Mussolini before it is over.

COMMON SENSE PREVENTS DROWNINGS

Drownings in the state over the past week-end call renewed attention to the tragic results of reckless conduct in the water.

Whenever the temperature soars the newspapers are quickly filled with casualty lists of those who sought relief from the heat at the seashore or lakes or rivers, and who failed to return because of some act of negligence.

The list of week-end drownings includes small children who waded beyond their depth; men who ventured out in canoes and sailboats despite their inability to swim and were lost when the boats upset; others who bathed at dangerous, unguarded beaches or who went swimming alone.

Observance of a few sensible safety rules would prevent many drowning accidents. Obviously, young children should not be permitted near deep water or left alone to wade beyond their depth. It should be just as obvious that non-swimmers should stay out of deep water and out of canoes, and that bathing at unprotected beaches at seashore resorts, where sudden undercurrents may sweep even the strongest swimmer to danger, should be scrupulously avoided.

Life-guards will tell you that most of their troubles are caused not by the non-swimmer, who is usually wary of the sea, but by those who can swim just well enough to make them over-confident.

Swimming alone, or at hours when no one is near, or shortly after eating, is an invitation to disaster. By steering clear of such practices swimmers can have plenty of fun and recreation without endangering their lives.

THE ROAD TO SAFETY

Addressing the Graduate School of Banking conducted by the American Bankers Association at Rutgers University, Dr. Douglas Southall Freeman, the distinguished American historian and editor, predicted an economic conflict between the United States and the totalitarian powers, rather than an actual conflict of arms.

"Millions of our Americans have been absurdly frightened over what they regard as imminent war and certain invasion," said Dr. Freeman. "It is futile perhaps to tell them that invasion continues highly improbable; but it is in order to tell them that the economic war of continents will begin as soon as the Germans can integrate their conquests....

"Ahead of us lies, perhaps, a period during which our public men will be tempted to be the Gamelin of our industrial war—to persist in optimism regardless of reality. We must be prepared to challenge them with facts and to call on them to present facts. If we have a heart to demand the truth of armament....in clear words for any man's understanding, then we may be sure that the mighty machine of our industry will be geared to full production.

"This is as true of finance as of armament. If American financiers who speak for the taxpayer, not for the tax spender, will develop a technique to show the average newspaper reader what armament and government are costing him, we shall escape much of the waste that usually inheres in war when the 'lid is off.'....

"America will survive—if her sons will cease to think of her as a Lady Bountiful and regard her as a mother for whom, from the love they bear her, they are willing to sacrifice. The road of individual self-discipline and self-denial is the road to America's safety, to her happiness, and to her world service."

Those eloquent words frame a philosophy perfectly fitted to the times we live in. Eliminate waste, minimize politics, stop wishful thinking—this is as necessary to defense as airplanes and cannon. Financially, no less than industrially, America is basically the most powerful of states, but it has been weakened by waste. And all our resources must be put to full service if we are to survive the revolution that today shakes the world.

Great Britain is showing stiff sales resistance to Hitler's proposals of "peace."

Weakness of a political convention is that an ordered demonstration isn't very entertaining a thousand miles away

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

AGREEABLE PARENTS AND HAPPY HOMES

Three things which parents can do to further home happiness of their children are, first, that the parents get along well with each other; second, that the parents take real interest in what the children are doing but without snooping or interfering; and, third, that the parents should be frank about the family budget, so that if necessary the children could earn additional funds to save face among their companions, or so they would understand why they could not have more.

So spoke Dr. Malcolm McLeane of the University of Minnesota before the annual convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers at Omaha, Nebraska, a few months ago. As I listened to him I felt he was getting at the essentials in home happiness. These three things are those, indeed, which have been most often mentioned as essential to family happiness by university students.

Repeatedly in this column I have held that the relationships between parents—how cooperative, agreeable and companionable they are—is the first essential to happy, wholesome upbringing of the children. Constantly I have been pleading for a better understanding by the parents of the child, and great consideration and respect by the parents of the child as a sacred personality; for a family atmosphere, moreover, in which every member shares in the family plans, including the family budget.

All Overlap

All these three factors which further home happiness overlap, as you can see. Parents who have great regard for each other as persons, each deferring to the other, neither considering himself or herself superior to the other; parents who exercise toward each other the nice amenities of social grace, who strive never to sink to the level of the common plane in their mutual relationship, who celebrate successes in each other who cooperate and try to pull together as a team—such parents find it easy to treat their growing children as they treat each other.

Parent Ideals

Of course it is too much to suppose that any parent pair will entirely attain these ideals in relationship all the time, human nature being what it is. Nevertheless, some parents get very near to these goals and many are able to progress toward them. Fortunate are those children whose parents keep striving toward these desirable objectives and and don't give up, however hard the struggle may become.

It seems to me that intelligent parents, beginning even before the first child is born, are doing well when they often talk together about their aims, ideals and goals as parents and try to work out together a program they are able and willing to follow.

Then, as they find themselves achieving some successes with this program they gain assurance that they can press on toward the goals they have set for themselves.

A selected list of books on understanding and guiding babies, children and youth may be had by writing me at 235 E. 45th St., New York City, N. Y., enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Solving Parents Problems

Q. How are we going to "toughen" the child enough if we don't make fun of him?

A. Leave it to his playmates and friends his age. In the rough and tumble of the playground; in the hall, locker room, athletic field at school; in the club—informal gathering outside of school; in the sorority, fraternity or bull-session at college.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THOROUGHNESS

A very interesting story has been published in the newspapers of this country regarding an alleged German College for the education of Fuehrers. It is said this institution of learning is now taking children of twelve years of age and upwards and teaching them all the art that is possible to be taught to young men and women of how to command, how to lead, their fellow Germans. It is supposed that from this young army of Fuehrers, Germany expects to pick the Governors of conquered provinces, just as Rome did in the palmy days of the Empire.

When it comes to thoroughness, Germany can be relied upon to be very thorough. It has been known for several years that German children are thoroughly taught to become skilled artisans and skilled agriculturists, as well as skilled soldiers, of the air, sea and land. Nothing like it has ever been known in the history of any nation. We Americans would call a people trained in that manner, to obey the commands of a central authority—a Dictator, if you will, just slaves—and we be free men.

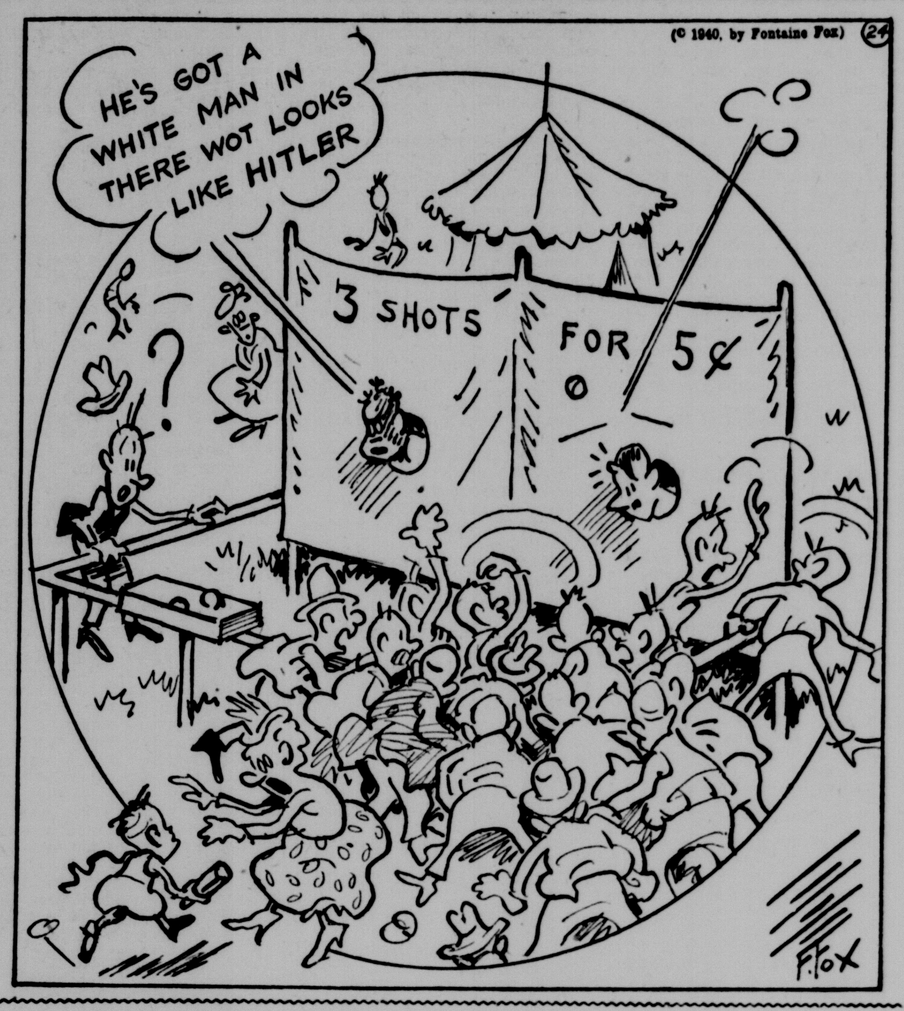

The history of this earth is going to be determined by free men, not by slaves, but free men can learn a lesson of preparedness for any eventuality from the methods pursued by the great Beast.

Bible Thought For Today

HINTS AND DINTS

There are birds who are always after a puddin' and they want it soft and sweet.

A Pittsburgh bride of three months ran away with $5,000 of her husbands money. Bet she saw something she liked better.

Major General Edward Martin, Pennsylvania's head soldier, declares that men and women holding public positions, including school teachers should not be permitted to retain their position without taking the oath of allegiance to the United States of America. Knowing the General, as we do, we know he would make them do that if it was up to him.

We'll have compulsory training. The only question is whether Americans or Nazis will direct it.

Why tell us it is transcribed? Such honesty benefits nobody, and affects us like the discovery that a perfect machine is second-hand.

"Many adults sleep raw."—Magazine article. It has one advantage; when a cigarette spark falls, they needn't wait to smell something burning.

I met a man the other day who was wearing colored glasses. I asked why he was wearing them, it being the first time I ever saw them on him.

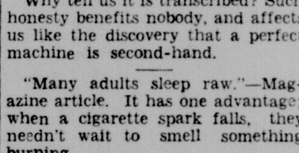

"I was forced to put them on so I can stand to look at the bright colored pants and dresses worn by boys and girls on the street," said the man wearing the glasses.—Susie.

Bet most of the birds who claim they stand on their record wish their feet were bigger.

We get tired of being told "You have to do this." It would sound better if it were said like this "We would like to have you do this."

HAVE PATIENCE, MOTHERS

They are noisy for such a little while, and then—suddenly they are men. And the things that worried you so, and fretted your day vanish. No muddy shoes, no trash to be thrown away! No caps on easy chairs. No coats on the floor. No neighborhood gang storming through the house and slamming the kitchen door. No telephone calls—"Is Billy home?" or "Mom, can I stay till one?" No waking you up in the wee small hours to tell you the dance was fun! Oh, a peaceful home is pleasant, of course, and a woman likes order, too, but only God knows how lonely it is when the long, long day is through.—Marjorie F. W., in Chicago Tribune.

A poor relative is a person who feels entitled to free board but feels imposed on if asked to wash the car.

What we want by this country is a government of law and not a lot of yapping by office holding politicians.

The marriage license bureau in Montreal, Can. ran out of marriage licenses, the jewelry stores ran out of wedding rings and the clergymen got sore throats intoning "Do you take this woman" and it was all because of the rush into matrimony before the July 15 deadline. From now on any young man who marries will be considered single for conscription purposes.

The young husband was pretty tired when he came home, but he livened up when his bride told him of her latest effort.

"Last night, you remember, I baked my first cake" said she, "and tonight I have another surprise. I have baked you my first pie.

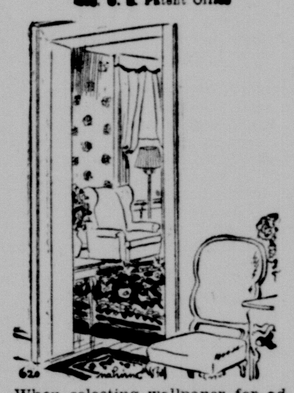

"Wonderful, darling," said the young man, who no doubt will be a real diplomat when he gets around to it. "As it is your very first one, let us put it aside where we can always admire it. You know they always put the first one of any great new invention aside so people can always look at it in the future.

If Roosevelt is eelcted he may retire in favor of the vice president who will do just as he is told. The Roosevelts always did want to run everything.

Time is the most valuable thing people have—and how they do waste it!

When selecting wallpaper for adjoining rooms take into consideration the fact that they should harmonize. When you see a part of the wall of the room you are occupying against a portion of the wall of that into which you are gazing, you want the harmony to be governed by the same rule that prevents your choosing a coat or sweater to be seen against your skirt or a hat to be seen with your coat. Thus if one of your adjoining rooms is papered in a rose tint, that of the adjoining room seen through it should also be papered in one of the tints or pastels of the warm group, which comprises, red, red-orange, orange, yellow-orange, yellow and red-violet; but remember it must be a tint and never a deep shade. But if one of the rooms is papered in one of the cool tints or pastel—blue, blue green, blue violet, green or yellow green, green that adjoining should be papered in a tint or pastel of this same series.

Reader's Questions Answered

Question: How soon after you move in should a housewarming be given?—H. H.

Answer: Whenever you feel that your new home is ready for visitors and inspection.

Question: One of my co-workers is very noisy when our employee is away. He whistles, sings and drums on his desk preventing my concentration on my work. Could you tell me what you think I should do.—Paul.

Answer: Tell him very emphatically but courteously that it is impossible for you to concentrate when he makes so much noise. He probabaly won't like it but if it is a matter of keeping your position or his friendship, I should think you would prefer the former. For, indeed, he sounds like a horrible bore.

Question: Is it appropriate to invite a boy to a party a month after his brother's death?—Ruby.

Answer: I shouldn't think he would want to go, but if he is a "special friend" who might feel hurt if you invite someone else explain to him that you would like to give him first choice if he is intertested in going.

CAREFUL ON THIS

Sometimes to test out a chap's command over the liquor he has swallowed the police ask him to repeat a few tongue twisters. Here's one that we've found trouble tackling even when we don't pronounce out loud:

"If a Hottentot tot taught a Hottentot tot to talk ere the tot could totter, ought the Hottentot tot be taught to say aught, or naught, or what ought to be taught her. If to hoot and toot a Hottentot tot be taught by a Hottentot tutor, should the tutor get hot if the Hottentot tot hoot and toot at the Hottentot tutor?

When some grounches smile their lips begin to bleed.

Remember back in the old days in New Castle when thousands attended the big camp meetings in Pearson's woods for a week or more. No doubt they would do more good now than they did then.

Among other things we don't like about the Democratic candidate for vice president is that he lets his wife select his neckties. Bet he wears 19 cent ones.

WRONG PLACE

"Where does the wind go when it stops blowing?" asked a youngster of his father.

"Oh, dry up" said the busy parent.

"No, that's where you told me the rain went," cried the child.

An investigation of that terrible mine disaster at Sonmon, Pa., is threatened. Sixty three valuable lives were lost. The only time we hear of those investigations is when they are threatened to be started.

Thomas Jefferson, the first Democratic president, expressed the hope that any man who tried for a third term should be decisively beaten. That is another thing the people should do in the honor of the great Jefferson.

"Anything worth doing is worth doing extremely well" smiled the self-sufficient gentleman as he told of one of his latest business deals.

His wife sniffed.

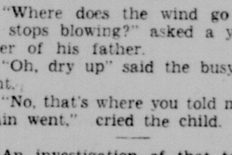

"So that's why you go all the way when you start making a fool of yourself?" she said.

We have a neighbor who has the darndest aggregation of odds and ends we ever saw. It really is a sight to watch him hunting through things he saved and doesn't need to try to find something he needs and didn't save.

For our odd definition today we give a boy's answer to what a pharmicist is.

Said the youngster: A pharmacist is the wife of a pharmar, who is a man who has a pharm.

What some men say to their wives goes. In other cases it merely goes around the neighborhood.

The class of 1910 was holding a reunion. "Where is John Smith?" asked the secretary. "I've been looking for him high and low." "You're looking in the right places" said a member of the class. "John died six months ago."

BRAVE HUSBAND

A hired girl sassed her mistress. She told her husband, and he said, "No one can talk to my wife like that and not answer to me for it."

"I'm glad to hear you say that, John; Maggie is in the kitchen," said wifey.

"All right, dear," said John. "I'm going to the office. When you hear the telephone bell ring, tell Maggie I want to speak to her."

Glass Gave Democrats Real Thrill
Nominating Address Was Spectacular
Personality Attracted Most Attention

By CHARLES P. STEWART
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, July 24. — Veterans of the last two national conventions generally agree that Senator Carter Glass' speech putting James A. Farley's name before the Democratic gathering in Chicago was the most spectacular oratorical performance of either of the pair of big party assemblages.

It wasn't the speech in itself that made the convention-goers sit up and take so much notice. On the contrary, the senator was so hoarse and husky that not much of the crowd in the huge auditorium could hear him. Nor did he say anything that plenty of others haven't said and are continuing to say. He denounced third termism very forcibly, to be sure, but all the Republicans are doing that, and so are the anti-New Deal Democrats.

The old solon's personality was what attracted attention.

A large majority of it wasn't favorable attention, either. The New Dealers tried to boo the venerable Virginian down. He got some applause, too, but his audience plainly was preponderantly hostile to him.

That was just the point. He knew he was going to face hostility and he had the nerve to defy it.

He's a remarkable defy-er. He isn't much more than five feet tall. Convention Chairman Barkley introduced him as the "youngest man in the Senate," whereas, at 80-odd, he's the oldest. He was sick also.

But he was as ferocious as if he were in his 20's, as healthy as a wildcat and the size of Big Jim Farley. When the booing and a temporary fizzling of the mike drowned him out he simply stuck out his jaw and waited—then went on with his panning of third termism. Pugnacity is written all over his visage, anyway—normally.

Handle With Care

Senator Glass can be and is exceedingly nice if he isn't ruffled.

I've interviewed him lots of times I always found him loaded for bear until I'd satisfied him that my intentions were good. Then he'd be as friendly and informative as possible.

He was the author of the law which created the federal reserve system. He loves that system as a mother loves an angel child. Hint at anything in derogation to it in his presence, and you're due for trouble. One day I had a question I wanted answered concerning it. So I visited the senator and put my query. He instantly jumped to the conclusion that I was trying to find fault with his system.

"Eee-yow!" he burst out, in a way he has on such occasions.

"Now, senator," I exclaimed hastily, "this is just something I want to know about the federal reserve system, and I've come to you as the foremost authority on the subject."

"Oh," he said, immediately mollified, "if you're just trying to understand its merits I'll be glad to help you." And he did it, absolutely peaceably.

Senate's Youngest Member

In a way, Democratic Convention Chairman Barkley was right in describing the old Virginian as the "youngest man in the Senate."

He'd be hard to tie for pep and belligerency.

Barkley, to be sure, wasn't in sympathy with the speech Glass made. He's been a "third termite" all along. However, he had to recognize his Senate colleague's virility.

And I'm inclined to think that a good bit of the applause the latter did get at the Chicago blow-out came from third termites, who didn't indorse what he was saying but who couldn't refrain from paying a tribute to his courage.

Glass, of course, isn't the lone survivor of the original old time Democrats, dating back to Thomas Jefferson. There are a few others on Capitol Hill and doubtless elsewhere throughout the country.

But Glass certainly is their patriarch.

Life insurance expectancy is against the theory that he'll be present at another Democratic national convention, but he surely did get his fair share of the limelight at this last one. He got some boos, too, but there wasn't any question that the boo-ers considered him worth booing. He scared 'em and they were trying to offset him.

LOST OPPORTUNITY

He has often thought about it since the truth he's understood;
Often wished piano lessons he had taken when he could,
But the reason that he didn't now
he pens this verse to state
Is the keyboard fairly frightened off a litlte boy of eight.

He remembers that his mother very often used to say:
"Do your finger exercises or you'll sorry be some day!"
But that stretching, grinning keyboard with the teeth of black and white
Frightened off that little fellow from a source of pure delight.

There was once a spinster lady who was hired to teach the scales.
(There are always times, I'm certain, when the music teacher fails!)
And she struggled and she battled and she scolded many a day,
But the little fellow couldn't or he wouldn't learn to play.

Oh, the years are long and many since the mother used to say:
"If your music you don't practice you'll be sorry som: fine day!"
Now a fellow crowding sixty sits and wishes that he could Strum the keyboard just a little, as his mother said he would.

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

by The Baltimore Sun
(Copyright, 1940)

They Have Read The Book

WASHINGTON, July 24.

IT is merely the truth to say that Mr. Roosevelt's third-term attempt has gotten off to a bad start. The most ardent third-termers concede that. All those concerned in the convention management and in the pre-convention strategy agree on that point. Where they differ is in apportioning the blame.

AMONG many there is a disposition to place most of it upon that Tuesday-night message of Mr. Roosevelt's. With the drive to force his nomination being directed by his most intimate personal friends, taking direct telephonic orders from him, to declare to the country that he did not seek and had no purpose to take the nomination so obviously clashed with the facts that an indelible impression of fraud was made. It was too much to expect the public to swallow. The President, it is said, should have known he "just could not get away with that."

OTHERS tend to blame Mr. Harry Hopkins, who was in charge of convention strategy as Mr. Roosevelt's direct representative and closest friend. Mr. Hopkins, it is alleged, badly botched the job. His arrogance toward Mr. Farley, his disputes over strategy with "Kelly, the King Maker," as Mayor Eddie Kelly is called by his admiring Chicago friends, and the tactless manner in which he handled the revolt against Mr. Wallace, all contributed toward painting a picture not pleasant to view.

IN brief, the public reaction was bad. The people got, over the radio and through the press, too realistic a view of what actually was going on. The taste left in their collective mouth was not good, and the third Roosevelt campaign begins with the heretofore cocky gentlemen, who determined there should be one, somewhat dejected at the outlook. It not only is the deep anti-third term feeling and the revolt of leading Democratic individuals and Democratic papers which supported Mr. Roosevelt in 1936 that dismays them. There is more than that. There is a feeling among the more acute observers in both parties that the great bulk of the people who for eight years have been so unswervingly loyal to Mr. Roosevelt have become just a little tired not only of him but of all the Roosevelts—just tired enough to want a change. Those who cherish this view—and among them are some deeply experienced politicians friendly to Mr. Roosevelt—make an interesting argument. This popular weariness of the Roosevelts, they point out, has nothing to do with the third term, nothing to do with his record, his broken promises, his administrative failure, nor the pretense of his present campaign.

NONE of these things really would affect the Roosevelt following if the people had not begun to get just a little tired. It isn't anything Mr. Roosevelt has done or has not done; it is nothing Mr. Wilkie is or is not.

Throng Attends Third U. P. Bible School Gathering

Over 400 Share Picnic At Cascade Park Tuesday; Dinner And Program Features

An ultimate success in every way, with perfect weather to make things more than complete, the first outing planned by the entire Bible School unit of the Third United Presbyterian church, which was held at Cascade Park, on Tuesday, attracted over 400 persons including members, families and friends. It marked the first event of this nature undertaken in about seven years and it is hoped to make it an annual celebration.

Chairman for the affair was C. C. McKibben, social superintendent of the Bible School Cabinet, and he was assisted most capably and most willingly, by the various chairmen, and aides.

In the grove, at 6:30 o'clock, all were seated and served a bountiful menu.

During the hours preceding the feast, a ball game between the married men and the single men, caused much excitement, with the former group victorious.

At three o'clock, the kiddies were favored with an interesting program of sports and contests, attractive prizes being awarded the various winners, as follows: beginners department, James Dufford, Phyllis Phillips, Randall Mooney, Sally Flansburg and Richard Rapson; primary department, Jack Gray, Martha Ellen Taylor, Anthony Phillips, Sally Campbell, Jack McKibben, Marilyn Shaw; Junior department, Harriet Reed, Josephine Mancine, Myrtle Reed, Mont Smith, Jack Frazier and Walter Davies; intermediate department, Evelyn Douglass.

Women's contests which featured the evening hours, rounded out the program of entertainment. Those fortunate in winning prizes, included Mrs. Walter Bixler, Mrs. Kelly, Jean Montanary, Mrs. Elmer Rice and Mrs. Joseph Must.

The children were also given tickets for the various amusements of the park, many taking advantage of the swimming facilities, as well as the concessions.

The American Red Cross provided a first aid camp for the benefit of the picnickers, having two well trained persons on hand, ready for any emergency.

Rev. Chester T. R. Yeates, pastor, gave the invocation preceding the dinner, following the group singing of one verse of God Bless America.

DEFENSE TALKS TAKE ANDREWS TO WASHINGTON

Executive Vice President Arthur H. Andrews of the Greater New Castle Association is in Washington for "important conferences" with governmental leaders on matters directly relating to national defense Norman E. Clark, association president, disclosed today.

Clark declined to state the definite nature of the conference.

He said Andrews is scheduled to talk with Congressman Louis E. Graham, of Beaver, the local district's representative. That meeting, Clark said, related to the conferences Andrews will hold with other federal officials.

Sometime ago Andrews met with several war department representatives and pledged New Castle's cooperation in any Western Pennsylvania national defense preparation which might be proposed.

The GNCA named a "national defense committee" with Walter W. Duff, local industrialist, as its chairman.

The committee has met several times, discussing Andrew's reports on his earlier Washington conferences.

President Clark said he expects Andrews home within a short time. Further announcements will depend upon the outcome of his capital discussions.

The Great Game Of Politics

The change in popular taste has nothing to do with merit or issues and little to do with intelligence. It is occurring largely among the undiscriminating voters who have constituted the real Roosevelt strength, and to whom he has always appealed and upon whose continued undiscriminating support he has counted. All that has happened to them is that they are fed up. They do not dislike Mr. Roosevelt. They have not exactly turned against him. They just have lost interest. For eight years they have been fascinated by the family and have adored them all. They have been charmed by the President's radio voice, delighted in his attacks upon business, enjoyed his feebly funny press conference wisecracks and his stirring fireside chats about the undernourished and the underprivileged; marveled at the manner in which he ladeled out the Federal funds.

THEY have been intrigued rather than resentful when his wife—and even his mother—capitalized the White House prestige lucratively to endorse various commercial articles. They have listened to and read Mrs. Roosevelt's daily, weekly and monthly utterances on how to rear children and do many other things. They have been pleased more than displeased with "Jimmie Roosevelt's insurance and movie prosperity; with Elliott's radio activities; with the Hearst journalistic connections of Mr. Boettiger and the President's daughter. They have loved the stories about Sistie and Buzzie, been tremendously interested in all the Roosevelt divorces and all the multitudinous Roosevelt activities.

IT has been, in fact, a grand show. But eight years is a long time. After eight years, there are no more white rabbits to pull out of the hat, no more new and glistening balls to throw in the air; few things the Roosevelt family can do either to shock or interest. Those masses of undiscriminating voters are like a man who has been reading "Gone With the Wind" and, after a long time, come to the end of the last chapter. It was a thrilling story, but he is through with it. He has had enough. He no longer cares whether the hero marries the heroine or fails out the window and breaks his neck. He has read the book.

THAT, say close students of the psychology of the undiscriminating voter, is what has happened to him. He has read the Roosevelt book; seen the Roosevelt picture. It was a long and exciting story and a colorful, charming film. But he does not want to reread the story, nor to see again the picture. Without a trace of bitterness, he is ready for a new story and a new picture. That is the way the situation—so far as it concerns the undiscriminating voter—is sized up by usually competent judges. That is the way they account for the lack of sustaining enthusiasm among the Roosevelt supporters over the third-term attempt. They want a new book. It seems a reasonable argument.

Many Aid Woman In Observing Her 82nd Anniversary

The fact that Tuesday was her 82nd birthday helped Mrs. Lois Miller, Highland Heights, to forget yesterday's stifling heat.

So many relatives, friends and neighbors visited her home that she didn't have time to think about the temperature.

In excellent health and as spry as one of her years would want to be, Mrs. Miller is a life-long resident of this district. Her husband, Alva, and two daughters, Mrs. Ora Brooks and Mrs. Jessie McGaffic, who live nearby in Highland Heights and her five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren were first to congratulate her. Friends staged a post card "greeting" shower for her.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller now look forward to their next big celebration day—their 59th wedding anniversary on November 1.

Edward B. Duda Aids In Rescue

Local Youth And Companion Rescue Two Women From Atlantic Ocean

In a letter to his mother, Mrs. George Duda of 110 Balph avenue, Private Edward B. Duda, who is stationed with the United States army, Battery B, 70th coast artillery company Fort Moultrie, S. C., told of aiding in a rescue of two women from the Atlantic ocean.

Private Duda was swimming from the beach near Fort Moultrie with another soldier, Private John Milonovich, when they heard cries for help. They immediately went to the rescue of two women who were being carried out to sea and were unable to help themselves.

The local youth and his companion had rather a difficult time in quieting the two women long enough to bring them in to shore, and it required more than 15 minutes of swimming and struggling on the part of the rescuers.

According to Duda's account of the rescue, the women, aged about 35 and 40, were quickly brought around on shore, they having swallowed too much salt water.

The two army men were granted three days leave of absence for their deed.

Highway Workers' Status In Doubt

HARRISBURG, July 24.—I. Lamont Hughes, secretary of highways, said today he would place "example cases" of his department's 16,177 employes before the attorney general for an opinion on their status under the Hatch "clean politics" act.

While some 15,000 state employes are prohibited from political activity under the act, in the opinion of some state officials the exact position of the highway department workers was in doubt.

Hughes said "there are such wide ramifications" in his department, which gets millions in Federal funds, the legal advice is necessary.

FALLS FROM TREE

Warren Lee Jones, aged 5 years, son of Mrs. Thomas Jones, of Brazil, Ind., suffered a laceration of the chin, Tuesday afternoon when he fell from a tree. The accident occurred at the home of Mrs. Opal Muzzo, of Castlewood, where the Jones family is visiting.

Camp East Brook Chatter

Amid a heat wave and a rush to find cabin room-mates, 46 new campers tred their weary way into Camp East Brook. After the long process of organizing clothes and beds, and saying "goodbyes" to loitering parents, the girls hurried down aqua-lane to plunge for an hour. Following the plunge and dinner hour they were introduced to each other by means of the "Thousand-Mile Walk." Next on the activity list was a scavenger hunt. Miss Kay nullified the winning side by denouncing their "alfalfa" quest. After some discussion both Miss Kay's and Miss Margaret's cabin agreed they had both mistaken one of their items; the result was that they all enjoyed peanuts. Miss Dorothy then directed the round-table discussion, for the most part concerning worship services, rest-hour regulations, and questions brought to the floor by the campers. Continuing the policy of self-government that she initiated the first of the summer, Miss Dorothy gave all final authority of choice and suggestion to the girls themselves. Crackers and milk brought gleeful sighs from the 58 campers and counsellors; then a short social dancing period ended the first evening in camp.

Among the group at East Brook are the following campers:

Millicent Bloom, Jean Book, Helen Marie Bowater, Phyllis Burry, Frannie Davis, Shirley Dean, Angeline DeVideo, Esther Elefant, Mabel Evans, Jeannie Fenati, Anna Flyak, Beverly Fox, Norma Lee Fulton, Donna Gormley, Maxine Gross, Burda Groden, Helen Hayes, Ethel Jay, Shirley Kennedy, Dottie Wallace, Eleanor Wallace, Peggy Wilkinson, Patricia Kradle, Lois Leach, Jane Lee, Rita Manning, Betty Kay McFall, Shirley McGroth, Genevieve McLivney, Ruth McVay, Delores Patterson, Caroline Pfeiffer, Dorothy Preitzer, Rosella Preisel, Rena Jane Ramsey, Phyllis Ringer, Mary Ruth Ritty, Lillian Rosenberg, Nancy Rugh, Betty Sands, Mary Shuttleworth, Paulin Sizer, Georgianna Truby, Clara Walczak, Doris Womer, Irene Walczak and Caddie Wallace.

Annenberg Enters Lewisburg Prison

(International News Service)

LEWISBURG, Pa., July 24.—M. L. Annenberg, Philadelphia publisher, was a prisoner in the Northeastern Federal penitentiary today as result of violating federal income tax laws.

Entering the prison from a seldom used back door, Annenberg was immediately placed in a quarantine cell block where he must remain for 30 days to undergo routine mental and physical examinations.

Warden William H. Hiatt confirmed Annenberg's admittance at 11 p. m. yesterday and said he did not meet the prisoner, adding that it was only a routine admission.

Annenberg surrendered to United States Marshal William H. McConnell in Chicago Monday and was brought to the Lewisburg Federal prison after a 720-mile motor trip.

Congressmen have broken all speed records. Starting two years behind public opinion, they caught up in six days flat.

Dr. Dafoe's Column On The Quintuplets And The Care Of Your Children

(Copyright, 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

BONE BREAKS MUST RECEIVE IMMEDIATE MEDICAL CARE

No series of articles about injuries that occur to children during the summer would be complete without a word about broken arms and legs. I know I have my share of them every year. One young lad has come to me with broken bones each summer for the past three years. I'm wondering if he will repeat this year. Each time the story behind the accident has been the same. He had been climbing, he slipped, he fell.

Children will climb, and they will have falls; if you are spending the summer away out in the country somewhere, you would be wise to find out something about how to care for breaks and sprains until medical help arrives.

A doctor usually likes to get a patient with a broken bone or a sprain to some place where he can have a look at it under the X-ray. By this means the doctor can tell how the bones are going back together much better than by manual examination. In the case of a sprain, I always like an X-ray, because one can't always be sure that it is a simple sprain. There may be broken bones as well.

A man once asked me what I did a few years ago when I couldn't get my patients to the X-ray. I simply treated most sprains as though there were breaks too. That was the only way I could be sure.

When a break occurs in an arm or a leg it doesn't take very long for diagnosis; it is quite apparent what is the matter. Usually, there is an angle in the normally straight limb. If it is a leg that is broken, the victim can't stand on it. If it is an arm, it cannot be moved. In severe cases, the jagged ends of the broken bone may be actually pushed through the flesh.

When there are broken bones to deal with, get a doctor without delay. I think the best thing to do is leave the patient where he is until the doctor arrives. If this can't be done, then splints should be placed on the limb to hold it absolutely still while the trip is being made to the nearest medical aid.

A broom handle makes a very good splint, and usually there is one of these around. However, if no broom is available, any strong piece of wood three or four feet in length will do. If the stick is square with sharp edges, it should be bound first with newspapers or with cloth so it won't cut into the flesh.

Take this splint and bind it securely to the broken leg with three or four handkerchiefs. Don't tie it so tightly that circulation will be stopped, but see to it that the limb is kept from moving, for every move may aggravate the break, make it worse, and make the setting more difficult.

I never minded setting children's broken bones so much, but when you get an elderly person to work on, it isn't so good. I think the worst case of bone setting I ever had was a man of 75 who fell off a haystack, broke both legs, his collarbone, and a couple of ribs.

It was a good many years ago, and it happened away out in the country, miles from any hospital. In those days we had to make our own splints and I remember I made them for this old fellow with shingles. I tell you, it was a job. When I finished, I was all in. I didn't really expect the old fellow to live, because pneumonia developed, as it often does when old people are injured. But he pulled through and died of plain old age ten years later.

There's quite a difference between setting bones now than in those days. Today we have X-rays, and if a doctor is called to make a difficult setting and doesn't make a perfect job of it, he's apt to be sued in court, charged with malpractice. In those days, people knew you were doing your best for them, whether it was a perfect job or not.

In an opinion handed down Tuesday by Judge W. Walter Braham an order is made in the case of Paul Wasserman, claimant against James R. Elder and the Pennsylvania Threshermen's and Farmer's Casualty Insurance Company. The order denies the appeal of the defendants against further workmen's compensation for the claimant and awards Wasserman $2,363.40 plus interest from March 30, 1931.

The case arose out of injuries to Wasserman on June 5, 1930, when his leg was crushed by a falling tree. He was awarded compensation by the Workmen's Compensation Board and payments started July 14, 1930. On March 30, 1931 they were stopped. In January 1932 he was given a check for $609 which the defendants thought to make a final payment.

Judge Braham decided in Wasserman's favor and he will get the accumulated compensation with interest, provided the decision is not overturned by the appellate courts.

Work on the Ewing Park bridge is progressing satisfactorily according to the county commissioners. Steel is being put into place and with good weather continuing the contractor should finish it well before his estimated time.

Steel is also being put into place on the new Harris bridge across the Slippery Rock creek. When this bridge and the highway on each side of it are completed, it will provide a scenic ride for motorists. Leading down to the bridge on each side one descends a road that offers some beautiful scenery. The bridge itself will be a handsome structure when it is done and should call for some sort of opening ceremony.

SYCAMORE BLIGHT MAY KILL TREES

HARRISBURG, July 24.—The State's Bureau of Plant Industry says the Sycamore or Plane tree blight is caused by a fungus which is usually destructive during periods of prolonged cool moist weather such as has been prevalent this year.

In severe cases, trees may be completely defoliated, but the Sycamore at least may produce a second crop of leaves and thereby complete the season's growth process without serious injury. However, complete defoliation during several successive seasons may cause the death of the tree.

Making Good Progress On Power Co. Building

Construction work on the new Pennsylvania Power company service building, corner of South Jefferson street and Croton avenue, is making steady progress and the structure may be ready for occupancy in October.

The structure when completed, is designed to house all the company's service facilities in this city and will have cost several hundred thousands of dollars. Louis A. Haug is the general contractor and construction now is weeks ahead of schedule.

The building fronts several hundred feet on South Jefferson street. Some portions will be two stories tall and another section one story high. All the exterior has been completed. The eastern side of the building will have a loading and unloading platform direct from a railroad siding.

On the first floor, concrete floors have been poured. The concrete is covered with curing paper which is kept on for seven days. The paper keeps the moisture in the concrete.

There is a huge storage room for the line department and storage department. With a mezzanine there are 15,000 square feet of space.

Toward the rear, or south, is the garage, with 20,000 square feet of space.

In the garage are the office of the superintendent of the line department; repair shop, lavatories, washrack, boiler room and a loading dock.

Between the garage and storage sections is a men's assembly room containing lockers and a lavatory room. The offices will face South Jefferson street.

Along the corridor will be drinking fountains, rooms for lavatories and a room for the main switch. Near the main entrance will be a space for the telephone operators. A repair parts room is also provided for and also facting on South Jefferson street will be a display room for the merchandise the company wishes to show. Fronting for more than 100 feet on South Croton avenue extension will be office rooms.

There are two stairways to the second floor. They lead to the engineering department offices. Material necessary to store on the second floor rear will be hoisted by an elevator. There will be ample drinking fountains and lavatories for second floor offices. Second floor fronting on South Croton avenue extension will be the meter department and upon the top of the second floor will be transformers.

The ceilings throughout the main building will be tile block. About 18,000 square feet of the tile block will be required in the office section. Good illumination is one of the certainties of the structure. In addition to their own electric light when desired, the building on all sides, on the lower and second floors, is a mesh of windows. Some of them contain 16 panes of glass, others more. There are no inside offices. All of them face the outside.

Near the South Croton avenue section is a room for exhaustion of refrigerators. Outside the building, running north and south is a loading and unloading dock, along which will be a railroad siding. The pole yard will be located northeast of the service building.

The property of the company will be inclosed with a neat fence. There will be lawn plots, flower beds and beautiful driveways and when next summer arrives the beauty of the place will be vivid.

New Club House Near Completion At Chewton

ELLWOOD CITY, July 24.—Nearing completion is the new club house owned jointly by the Ellwood City Rod and Gun club and the Wampum Rod and Gun club and located on the Wampum road near Chewton. Already the structure presents an excellent appearance and when completed will be one of the finest sportsmen's lodges in western Pennsylvania.

With all the labor being voluntary, the building has been in progress for about a year and will require about six weeks for completion. The building is 26x34 and will have plywood on the sides and ceiling and a maple floor. The outside has ben covered with attractive gray asbestos shingles. The interior, to be one large room to serve for a meeting place, has six double casement windows, a double door and two single doors. Attention in the interior will be centered about a large brick fireplace which is 8 feet wide and 18 feet high and the gift of Arden Krebs, of Wampum.

Lumber for the building was given by the Medusa Cement Company in the form of old houses from which the members salvaged the usuable lumber. A slate roof was provided by Joe White, of Wampum.

Completing the building is a wide, spacious porch 10x34, overlooking the range. Shrubbery will be planted about the porch and lodge and drives and walks will be added.

An added pride of the project is the outdoor fireplace, which is really a rave. It is 5x6 and a complete outdoor stove. It has been tried out by eager and enthusiastic members and works ideally. It was the gift of Clyde Badger.

The building is located on a 540 acre plot which is most suitable for various hunts and matches. The porch overlooks the two shooting ranges, one for each of the clubs. There are two trap houses for the release of clay pigeons.

Verd Douthitt, of Wampum, has supervised the work while the plans were drawn by Howard Blank, of Ellwood. Dal Turner contributed the interior wiring and the outside wiring was donated by the Herge Company, who also gave the lighting fixtures, and the Pennsylvania Power Company has provided outside flood lights. Nails were contributed by the Circle Lumber Company and the Plastic Products Company of Wampum provided the paint. Max Gilkey, of New Galilee, has agreed to dig a well to provide drinking water. A kitchen is a future ambition of the builders.

The clubs will equally invest $600 in the lodge and range and it will be valued at $3,000.

Council To Finance Sewer Re-Location

Present Location Interferes With Building Addition To Engineering Company

ELLWOOD CITY, July 24.—At a special session last evening, the Ellwood City Boro Council agreed to finance the relocation of a storm sewer that interferes with the building addition now in progress at the Aetna Standard Engineering company, which recently received a three million dollar order for the new national defense program.

The sewer is one that serves a large part of the second ward in addition to the Engineering company.

With the two fifth ward councilmen, Robert Curry and J. C. Boyd, repeatedly objecting to the boro bearing the expense, pleas for the support of local industry were made by Solicitor J. W. Humphrey, Chamber of Commerce Secretary R. J. Schill, and Councilmen Clyde Hill, A. J. Howell, H. E. Frank Biordi, Nick Lanzi and James P. Menecie. Councilman Habert did not express his opinion.

The council first passed an ordinance dedicating 31 feet of Spruce Way, an alley, to the company with Boyd declaring that "This was a handsome gift".

Mr. Schill declared that many cities pay thousands of dollars to induce industry to locate in their cities and he said that this company would buy much of their materials from the local mills and that two-thirds of the 500 men to be employed would be laborers that would be employed locally. The other third will be trained machinists.

When the final vote was taken, Boyd cast the only negative count. It was agreed to give the company permission to begin the work today and then bill the city, to expedite the work. If the boro did the work it would require several days for bid advertising and other delays. It was pointed out that the company would have to pay a penalty for every day the work is delayed after September 15. The council limited the cost to $1150.

"It can't happen here"?

...IT ALREADY HAS!

THE THING that happened before the fury of actual war broke over Europe, has already happened here.

Preceding the open war—there was a hidden war in Europe. This hidden war paved the way for the guns and bombs that came later—softened things up—made easy conquests by brute force, still easier.

And this hidden war is right with us here in America, today. —We thought it couldn't happen here—but it already has!

THE "WEAPONS" used in this hidden war are lies, deceit, treachery, false philosophies. They strike directly at our basic form of government—and are intended to do that very thing.

They are meant to destroy it—and we have permitted the attack upon our Liberty to grow and develop. We have been complacent in the very face of a deadly assault.

Open war, with all its horrors, might be called an "honest" thing—when compared with the treachery of the hidden war which is here in America today.

In actual war, you know and see your enemy—there is no pretense. The enemy doesn't pretend to be anything else. There's no subterfuge about it when the guns begin to roar. But in this hidden war, the traitors and enemies appear in the guise of "friends".

It is time we recognized these masqueraders for what they really are—time to stop and challenge their attack upon our great democracy. It is not a time for hysteria. What we need is cool, calm, determined thinking and action. Two things we can do, and do now, to strengthen our country—and add to its resources. We can think and talk the American way—and we can practice it by going right ahead with business until something else is needed.

HOW ABOUT the false philosophies these enemies preach? Are they better than the American philosophy and ideals? Where do they lead? Well, for one thing, they lead to war—actual war. That's been proven. And we want none of that.

But, what do we want? What does any man want? He wants peace, happiness, security for himself and his family—and a chance to get ahead. And this is what America means to its citizens—it is what America gives them.

NOWHERE ELSE are so many human beings included within the realm of human rights and individual opportunity. —The American standard of living is the highest yet achieved by the human race in the world's history. Americans demand more of life—and get more. Things that are luxuries elsewhere are everyday necessities in America—and nearly everybody has them.

And yet we are being told by traitors from within, and enemies from without, that there is something better —that we ought to abandon what we have and adopt something else.

PROBABLY you, yourself haven't fully realized what America means to you and what it gives to you and your family. It will do you good to think about it—and then talk about it.

Make no mistake, the enemies of our democracy are here and at work, with lies, deceit and treachery.

We thought it couldn't happen here—but it has.

And we can stop it. Stop it by standing up and speaking up for America.

Reds Win Two From Dodgers

Increase League Lead To Seven Games, Players Again Stage Riotous Scene

By ED KIELY
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, July 24.—Apparently baseball is reverting back to the style of play of the oft-recalled "good ol' days" when a fight was almost guaranteed with every nine innings.

The old-timers, who claim that such days have gone forever, were forced to admit today that the current Brooklyn Dodgers are worthy, in the fisticuff department at least, to be ranked along with the teams of the era of flying spikes and flailing fists.

Yesterday the feudin' flatbushers engaged in their third grudge battle of the present campaign and, although they practically eliminated themselves from the pennant race, Durocher's darlings proved there is still plenty of fight in the century-old game.

Players Battle

The latest incident occurred in the eighth inning of the first game of a twin-bill with the Cincinnati Reds yesterday when Lonnie Frey of the Reds upset Pete Coscarart, who was pivoting at second base in an attempt to complete a double-play.

Immediately players from both sides joined in the brawl and, unlike most fights on the diamond, this time three players were hurt. Coscarart suffered a spike wound in the knee; Junior Thompson, Cincinnati's pitcher, was spiked in the foot and Bill Werber, Reds' third baseman, received a black eye.

A partisan crowd of 35,603 fans left Ebbets Field in a sorrowful state for the Reds proved better ball players than fighters, capturing the first game 4 to 3 in eleven innings and the nightcap, 9 to 2. The rampant Reds, making a runaway of the National League race, now pace the field by seven games.

Earlier in the season, the Dodgers participatd in free-for-all battles with the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs.

The rising St. Louis Cardinals opened their eastern tour with a 7 to 3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies, with Fiddler Bill McGee receiving credit for his ninth win of the year.

Zeke Bonura made his debut with Chicago as the Cubs tripped the Boston Bees, 6 to 1, and with King Carl Hubbell allowing only five hits, the New York Giants triumphed over the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9 to 1, in a night game.

Senators Trim Tigers

In the American League, young Ken Chase held the league-leading Detroit Tigers to seven safeties while the Washington Senators pounded out 14 hits to gain a 6 to 3 decision. Dick Bartell celebrated his return to the Tigers lineup by cracking out a homer, as did Rudy York of the same club.

Julius Solters was the hero of the Chicago White Sox 8 to 7 victory over the Boston Red Sox. In addition to scoring the winning run in the ninth, Big Moose hit a homer and knocked in five runs.

The New York Yankees lost a night game to the lowly St. Louis Browns 9 to 5 while the Cleveland Indians beat the Philadelphia Athletics in another night game 1 to 0.

Favor Overlin To Defeat Soose

(International News Service)

SCRANTON, Pa., July 24.—Ken Overlin, hard-punching world middleweight champion, was favored to win over Billy Soose, former Penn State athlete, in their 10-round non-title bout in Scranton stadium tonight.

The battle marks an important milesone in the ring career of youthful Soose, with only 30 bouts under his belt. But the Farrell, Pa., collegian was confident at the close of training at his Lake Wallenpaupack camp.

Overlin, a veteran of 13 years' campaigning, was reported to be in a fine fettle as he motored to Scranton from his Summit, N. J., training quarters for the weighing-in ceremony.

Promoters of the season's first outdoor show in this northeastern Pennsylvania anthracite center expected 10,000 spectators to turn out for the fray. The clash marked the return of big-time boxing to this region.

McCARTY HURLS SECOND VICTORY

Young "Jack" McCarty won his second game in a row for the Red Sox last night, downing the Ryantown team 11 to 4 at Washington High field. McCarty was very stingy with his hits again last night, allowing the losers but five safeties.

The Redlegs had 10 hits off of Ostrosky and Smith. Minner featured with a long home run drive. McCarty besides pitching a swell game, had two of the Red Sox hits, one a double. Other heavy hitters were Bevan, McConahey and Ostrosky.

McCarty recently defeated St. Josephs with a great four-hitter.

MOOSE DEFEAT ST. JOSEPH 7-6

The Moose club baseball team won a city league game last night from the St. Joseph team at Lehigh field 7 to 6. The Moose won the game by rallying in the last of the sixth to tally five runs.

Johns and McClymonds did the Moose pitching and Andy Sugent did the pitching for the Saints. Heavy clouting was done by Johnny Marshall, Strausbaugh and Mike Mash, the latter slamming out a long home run.

Sugent held the Moose to four hits until the sixth inning, then came the uprising.

Rieck Old Timers Will Play Again

Shades of "Mike" Donovan—the City baseball league secretary announced today that the old Rieck-McJunkin team of years back will play the pick of the City League at Lockley Field at a near date.

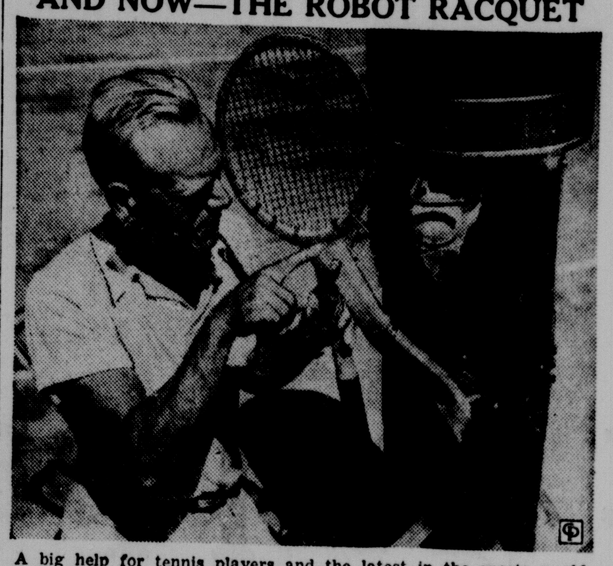

The Rieck team in the olden days was managed by Donovan and they had a crackerjack team—(ask the old Italian A. A. players). The Rieck team will be managed by both Donovan and Frank Coen this time. Some of the well known old timers on the Rieck team were: Paul McCullough, Earl Crowd, Gerald Earl, Tommy McCormick, Tommy O'Brien, Dewey McGinley, "Chuck" Travers, "Jokey" Travers, Carl Reeble, Cacky Gennock and others.

The game will be played as a Red Cross benefit game and will more than likely be a Saturday afternoon game.

JUNEDALES WIN GAME

The Junedales girls softball team won a girls league game last night from the Liberty Stars 10 to 9 at Hickory Heights. The feature of the game was the pitching of Miss Netta Camille. Winning the game for the Junedales was Miss Anna Drespling who hit a long double to left field, scoring two of her team mates.

AND NOW—THE ROBOT RACQUET

A big help for tennis players and the latest in the sports world. That's the robot racquet, introduced at the Merion Cricket club at Haverford, Pa. The machine will serve, drive or lob 60 balls to the same spot as they come down from the container. William White, club instructor, looks the machine over.

BESSEMER WINS FROM MEDUSA

Bessemer went into fourth place in the Lawrence County baseball circuit by handling a seven to six defeat to Medusa at Wampum, yesterday. The Bessemerites battered Fontana and Harper for 10 hits. Ten were collected off Stanley who pitched for the winners. Medusa is in last place in the league standing.

Bessemer went ahead six to four in the fourth and scored again in the first of the seventh. Medusa came to life with two runs in an attempt to tie up the game but their two runs were not sufficient to do this.

Kosior, Stanley, Pistol, Winters and Anderson hit doubles, the latter poling two.

"ACE" MAKES DEUCE

Charles "Ace" Perrotta, captain of the Shenango Pottery golf team in the Sylvan Heights League, first half champions of the league, scored a brilliant deuce on the 320-yard No. 17 hole at Sylvan Heights, last evening during the Potter's match with Herge's of Ellwood City. Perrotta had a nice drive and sunk his short iron approach. Needless to say his opponent didn't even tie him for the hole.

SYLVAN HEIGHTS LEAGUE

Scoring a 4-2 victory over Ellwood City Moose in the Sylvan Heights League last evening, Scarazzo's continued to forge ahead and now lead the pack by 4½ points, New Castle Moose, with a 5-1 victory over Universal Sanitary and Manufacturing Company, went into second place, 4½ points behind the leaders.

Two par rounds were scored, Louis Malls and Hackett Kennedy producing the perfect rounds with 36 each, while Marty Segedi and "Ace" Perrotta had 37's. Other low scores included: R. Johnson, Jimmy Pagley, Mogey, Piatek, Ottoviana, and Fenati, with 38's; and Rick Monsey, Gaione, Macioge, and C. Patsy, with 39's.

The result of play were as follows: Fenton's, 3, Ellwood City Saxons, 3; Unions, 4, Duca D'Abruzzi, 2; Scarazzo's, 4, Ellwood City Moose, 2; New Castle Moose, 5, Universal Sanitary and Manufacturing Co., 1; Shelby Social, 3½, Saegertowns, 2½; Shenango Pottery, 4, Herge, 2.

Sports World Ramblings

Bits scribbled under the shade of an old oak tree:—William Ickes, a triple-A sports follower from R. F. D. No. 3 way, comes to bat with a few interesting slants on the American League pennant situation. Ickes tees-off naming Edgar Smith, of the White Sox, as a thorn in the path of the Yanks. Ickes brings to light the fact that Smith snapped the Yanks' eight game streak just about this time last year. . . .

After showing the positions of the teams in '39 (Yanks first by 9½ games, Boston, second, Detroit, third and Cleveland, fourth), Ickes predicts a different story this season. "Detroit has a great team and their rookies will get better with time. Cleveland has only been shut out once this year and, with Feller being in his stride, plenty of trouble will come. Mack and Boudreau have filled in Cleveland's weak infield hole, Feller, to date, has fanned 170 batsmen and has an equal chance of breaking Walter Johnson's 306 mark," the correspondent states. . . .

Several readers want to know who Pitcher Mustaikis is. Alex Mustaikis, obtained by the Red Sox recently, was a hot shot with Scranton. He deserved a trial, being one of the most consistant winners in the Eastern League. . . . To A. L.: Clay Smith, who joined Detroit recently, formerly tossed for Beaumont. He won 13 and lost 4 before getting the call . . . To Erie: Thanks for interesting letter. Will use same when time comes . . .

Everett "Scissors" Collins, who was a second Mickey Cochrane in his day, is now an umpire. He calls them around the City-County Independent League. He lives in the Castlewood sector. In his ball playing days, Collins performed with quite a few local independent outfits . . . Fred Shaffer, who is doing his chucking for Little Rock of the Southern Association, has bagged four triumphs since leaving the American Association. . . .

This warm weather did some funny things. The Pittsburgh Pirates, for instance, went wild over the week-end, scoring 38 runs in three games. . . . Harry Craft, Cincinnati fly shagger, has yet to be credited with an error, so far this season. . . . "Boots" Poffenberger, who was tossed out of the big show, has won 14 games for Nashville. . .

Denny Galehouse, Red Sox twirler, is one of the top night game peggers in baseball. 'Tis so because of a good sinker and a slider owned by the Beantowner. . . Johnny Mize pilfered his first base since 1937 on July 4 against the Cubs. Since entering the big tent, Mize has stolen but four bases. He joined the majors in 1936. . . .

Clair Bee, pilot of the Long Island U. basketball wizards, wastes no time. While most everyone is endeavoring to find a cool nook, Bee is drilling his quintet around New York . . . Jack Dempsey reportedly earned $5,000,000 in better than 10 years of ring campaigning. The ex-Manassa Mauler may serve as third man when Lloyd Marshall and Teddy Yarosz square off in Beaver Falls, August 16. Marshall holds a decision over the former middleweight kingpin. . . .

HOT TOPS WIN FROM ELLWOOD

New Castle Hot Tops administered the first defeat of the second half race in the Lawrence County Baseball loop to Ellwood City, 6 to 3, yesterday at New Galilee. However, the defeat did not put Ellwood City out of first place.

Trailing 6 to 1 in the seventh Ellwood City rallied but it was cut short after the Tubers had scored a brace of runs.

Barry was in fine form. He allowed Ellwood City only four hits while 10 were garnered from R. Ferrante and Beatrice.

Ritz and Mazzant poled triples and in addition Ritz hit a double.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Two of the ring's glamour boys, Billy Soose, the show-boy, and Ken Overlin, the play-boy, will fight 10 rounds tonight in the anthracite coal regions, the scene being Scranton, where not so many years ago Pete Latzo won the middleweight toga from Mickie Walker while $80,000 worth of cash customers looked on. Scranton folk like the Farrell ex-amateur because he won six times in six fights in a Scranton ring. Overlin claims the middleweight title although Tony Zale is recognized in states where the National Boxing association rules. Tonight's fracas is an overweight affair.

The last of the bare knuckle fighters, Peter Maher, is dead in Baltimore. He was 71 and fought John L. Peter Jackson, Tom Sharkey and Bob Fitzsimmons. His last bout was in 1905. During the World war he was quartermaster-at-arms of the U. S. S. Washington.

Whizzer White will not don an apron and wait upon table at the summer session of the U. of C. He wants time to visit friends and study. He earned $15,000 for one season of Pittsburgh Pirates pro football. The European mess cut short his stay at Oxford where he had a Rhodes scholarship.

Two seeded performers, Welby Van Horn, Los Angeles, and George Lyttleton-Rogers, Ireland, were sidelined Tuesday in upsets in the Seabright lawn tennis tourney. Isadore Bellis, Philadelphia, outlasted Van Horn 3-6, 6-8, 6-2, and Ted Schroeder, Jr., Glendale, Cal., eliminated the former Irish Davis cup star 2-6, 6-2, 6-2. The winners passed into the quarter-finals. Defending Champion Frankie Parker led the way into the third round with a 6-1, 6-2 win over Ed Alloo, San Francisco.

Conn And Pastor Both Confident

Odds Favor Billy Conn To Defeat Bob Pastor In Coming Heavyweight Tangle

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 24.—Bob Pastor, who is one of the few college men ever to make good in the ring and who, perhaps for that very reason, is one of the few inarticulate fighters, is a very disgruntled young man today.

Bob's ire was aroused when he was informed that Billy Conn is a 7 to 5 favorite to beat him in their fight two weeks hence.

"Those are the most absurd odds I ever heard of," said Bob. "They are completely out of line. What has Conn ever showed for them to make him a favorite over me? Why, the guy is only an overgrown middleweight.

Pastor Confident

"I've never bet on a fight in my life but I'm going to break my rule in this one. I'll bet my end of the purse I can lick him. I think I'm an absolute cinch to knock him out in a few rounds."

(Parenthetically it should be remarked that only yesterday Conn informed me "he would pin Bob's ears back," and added, "that guy won't lay a glove on me.")

"If there ever was an overmatch, this is one," Bob continued. "Conn may be able to lick some of those big slow heavyweights but he can't outfoot me (Joe Louis will agree with Bob on that); outbox me or outpunch me and he certainly can't take a punch like I can. He's not heavy or rugged enough to stand real punching.

"Can you imagine Conn getting up off the floor six times in two rounds like I did and then taking command until a lucky punch stopped me? Louis would break him in two in one round and it won't take me much longer than that."

Wants To Meet Baer

Bob wants a shot at Max Baer after he beats Conn and then another shot at Louis.

"I think I'll get the Baer bout because I don't think Baer wants any part of Louis," said Bob. "Baer talks big about fighting Louis again but he's like the little boy who wants to be a lion tamer until he's invited to step into the lion's cage and then suddenly changes his mind. That's the way it is with Baer and Louis. If Louis invited him into the ring again, Max will decide it's much safer to act in the movies."

So there's the Pastor program for the summer—a quick knockout over Conn; ditto over Baer, if Baer will meet him, and a third shot at Louis' crown.

"And," said Bob pugnaciously, "I know now how to lick the champion and I think he knows it too."

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

How are you coming along with the grass cutting . . . one fellow said that every muscle in his body ached when his wife asked him to cut the grass. If that be the case he had 527 aches, as that is the number of muscles in the human body.

Summer, good old summer time . . . with the soft warm breezes (maybe hot in some parts) the time of year when men really think about clothing . . . they wish they could wear as little as the lady folks . . . and that saying always comes to mind when clothes are mentioned . . . "Clothes don't make a man" that's right, because there just couldn't be as many millionaires as the polo shirts would lead us to believe.

* * *

Here is an idea that might be used on some railroad crossings . . . "Stop dead and stay alive" . . . little ideas like that often bring thoughts to motorists and make then slow down and think about the driving they are doing. One can't be too careful these days . . . a drunk can own a car as well as a sober man.

* * *

People are all the time talking about their relations . . . here is one that was sent in . . . the fellow who wrote it requested his name be omitted as he thought maybe it might not go well at home . . . "Some folks who live in the country are bothered all summer long by large mosquistoes. Others have visiting relatives".

* * *

Some day maybe the citizens of New Castle will be able to ride around in busses . . . and all main streets will be as smooth as a card table. Let's hope that this happens with the present decade . . . before flying machines come to take the place of autos.

* * *

Volunteer Firemen of Neshannock Township are getting together and planning to hold a dance on August 1st . . . Now this is a good outfit and really deserves your support . . . the dance will be held at Lakewood and the money derived from the dance will be used to buy new equipment . . . so if you possibly can . . . help the boys out.

* * *

Some day maybe you will want to try placing an ad in the classified ad section of this paper . . . that day you will realize what a smart person you are . . . from then on the classified ad page will be your favorite . . . and the cost is very small.

Stock Market Marking Time

New Low In Dealings Indicated Today, All Major Groups Without Trend

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, July 24.—A new twenty-two year low volume for the stock market was indicated in forenoon dealings today, as prices continued pegged within the narrow limits of the past three weeks and more.

Turnover for the first hour, usually about the heaviest of the day, dropped to 40,000 shares vs. 50,000 shares yesterday. At this pace five-hour sales should approximate 200,000 shares or less, for the smallest full session since September, 1918.

All major groups were without trend from the opening, and many individual issues held at last night's closing throughout the morning. Several usually active stocks failed to sell in the initial hour of trading. Such representative stocks as U. S. Steel, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, Boeing, United Aircraft, Douglas, Anaconda, Goodrich, Texas Corp., American Telephone, and North American Co. held at last night's final quotations.

The inactive Peoples Gas rose a point on one sale, and Johns-Manville and American Air Lines each gained half as much. U. S. Gypsum, Standard Oil of N. J. and Philip Morris each lost a half-point.

Elsewhere changes were meaningless, with plus and minus signs about equally divided.

Hanlon Gives Route To Elwood, Indiana

With the date of Wendell Willkie's acceptance of the Republican nomination for the presidency set for Saturday, August 17, many local people who plan to attend have been digging out routes to Elwood, Ind., where the notification ceremonies will be held.

Elwood, Ind., is approximately 330 miles from New Castle, but because of its location a number of routes have to be traversed. B. N. Hanlon of the New Castle Motor club today provided a route to Elwood which will avoid many detours which are on other routes which could be taken.

In Mr. Hanlon's opinion the best route is the one following: From New Castle take Route 224 to Canfield, O., then Route 62 to Canton, O., from Canton to Mansfield, O., take Route 30 and from Mansfield to Beaver Dam, O., take Route 30 N. At Beaver Dam take Route to Lima and on to Wapakoneta. At Wapakoneta take Route 33 to St. Mary's, O.

At St. Mary's, O., take Route 29 to the Indiana state line where the route changes to number 69. Follow Route 69 to Albany, Ind., and at Albany take Route 28. This goes through to Elwood.

Elwood, Ind., is a town of about 12,000 people and quite naturally there will be hotel or home reservations for but few of the estimated crowd of 300,000 expected to attend. It is suggested that persons planning to attend will be much better off if they plan to stay over night 50 or 75 miles from Elwood the night before and then go in the next morning. Either that or plan to leave Elwood immediately after the notification and drive 50 or 75 miles that afternoon.

Parachute Pill-Box

Robert M. Thomson, a Miami, Fla., attorney, is shown with his model of a "parachute cabin," bullet proof and capable of holding twenty men. Applying for a patent, the inventor says the cabin could be dropped from a plane and parachuted to earth, covering itself with a hail of machine-gun bullets.

Old Timers Day Plans Progress

Arrangements Being Completed For Reunion At Cascade Park Aug. 14

EXPECT RECORD CROWD TO ATTEND

With the different committees in charge of the arrangements for Old Timers Day busily engaged in completing their plans for the coming reunion at Cascade Park, August 14, indications point to a successful and well-attended event, President Fred B. Sankey stated today.

For the benefit of those who wish to take a picnic lunch to the park and be on hand early for the program of the afternoon, Superintendent C. C. Coulthard is making arrangements to have enough tables for all who attend. Baskets can be taken out and checked for a nominal sum.

The doors to the pavilion will open promptly at one o'clock, and the program will get under way at 1:30 o'clock, with the grand march at 2 o'clock. Emery's old time orchestra will furnish the music for the occasion.

Frank H. Robinson, who has had charge of the dancing for a number of years, will be present to conduct this feature again this year, and the figures for the square dances will be called by Joe Brooks.

The registration committee will give special attention to the older folks, and a block of seats will be reserved for them so that they may be seated together and given a place up in front for the grand march. Last year, the registration list showed scores of folks over 70 years of age, many of them on up into the nineties who were present.

The honor of leading the grand march is being offered to the boy or girl who can qualify as a direct descendant of the oldest pioneer settlers on either side of the house. Those wishing to submit their names in the contest are asked to write a letter to Old Timers Association, in care of Paul F. Butz, 9 North Mercer street. The executive committee will make the decision as to who will receive this honor from the names presented.

Long on Courage

Donald Bosted

Rejected by the New York police department because he's half an inch too short, Donald Bosted smiles as he proves lack of height doesn't mean lack of courage. Donald, 23, grabbed a fallen policeman's pistol, fired five shots at a dangerous ex-convict, aiding materially in the man's capture.

Receives Letter From Relatives Over In England

Many residents of New Castle and surrounding cities, who have relatives in England and other parts of the war countries, haven't been able to hear from them regularly, but one local resident has received a letter in the past few days.

Mrs. J. H. Shaffer of McClelland avenue, mother of Mrs. H. S. Shuttleworth of Fairmont avenue, has received a letter from Manchester, England, from her sister, Mrs. John Billington of Chorlton-Cum-Hardy, telling of her impressions in England.

She states: "You wouldn't know there was a war on, only for the thousands of soldiers in uniform. The blackouts, we are used to, for we have been observing this religiously, and that is one thing they are strict about. My eldest son, who is the father of three, was one of the soldiers evacuated from Dunkirque. At the present, I am most anxious about my daughter who is a nun at Diyon, near Paris, which is now occupied by the Germans. We have tried every possible way to get some word, through the Mother House in Manchester, and even through the efforts of the American Embassy, but without results."

Mrs. Billington says for "Americans not to worry, as we aren't.—We have our air raid shelters in out backyards, and we are taking things in their stride."

Complete Plans To Demobilize French Troops

(International News Service)

VICHY, France, July 24.—Arrangements have been completed for demobilization of French troops, the French radio at Toulouse announced today.

The statement said demobilization of most of France's home and colonial forces will begin shortly.

The official journal, meanwhile, announced that a new law providing for revision of all grants of French nationality to foreigners since 1927.

Cancellation of such grants will be handled individually, the journal said, but will include members of families of those whose French citizenship is revoked.

These and other laws of similar nature are being issued by the Petain government with the aim of French reconstruction after the ravages of the war. These regulations are being enforced in both material and moral spheres.

One new law stipulates that from Aug. 1 French farmers no longer may distill their own hard liquor. This is to prevent evasion of excise taxes.

Still other ordinances are being imposed on French Riviera beaches, regulating beach costumes in a drive against semi-nudity.

Smart dopesters won't believe it, but even Southern Democrats are saying: "With Willkie running against Roosevelt, we'll have a good man in the White House, no matter which wins."

Fliers To Clear Runways Of Stone

Stone Picking Party And Wiener Roast Scheduled Tonight At Airport

New Castle's fliers will turn out in full force tonight at 6:15 o'clock at the New Castle Airport for a stone picking party and "dutch treat" wiener roast.

Sometime ago the earth runways at the port were harrowed to plant grass, and in so doing many rocks and stones were brought to the surface. These stones make it both difficult and dangerous to land anywhere but on the hard surfaced runways.

Tonight the pilots and enthusiasts from Findley Wilson's hangar and from William Ice's field will band together for the purpose of clearing away as many of the rocks as possible.

After dark the hard-working fliers, their wives and sweethearts will gather about a huge bonfire and have a wiener roast and song-fest.

Hatch Act Hits 15,000 In State

Political Activity Of State Workers Affected By New National Law

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 24.—Amendments to the federal Hatch Act extending restrictions on political activity of any state worker paid in part by federal funds, will affect approximately 15,000 state employes in Pennsylvania, it was learned today.

The amended bill now brings under the anti-politics ban, state and local officials working on federal projects and those being paid wholly or in part by federal funds. It also limits individual contributions to campaigns for federal funds.

The state department of public assistance employing more than 8,000 workers will be the most directly affected group in the state department. The unemployment compensation bureau of the department of labor and industry, employing 3,500 people, will also be greatly affected, both being under civil service.

Other departments of the state to come under the provisions of the act include highways, labor and industry, agriculture, forests and waters, public instruction, military affairs, welfare and the game commission.
